

Litigation Group Meetings

Revised: 01/25/05

ATLA Litigation Groups are voluntary associations of members handling similar cases. The groups reduce the cost of litigation and improve the quality of representation through the sharing of documents, information and expertise. Regular, Sustaining, Life or President's Club Members, who meet the group's requirements, are eligible to join. Litigation group meetings at the Convention vary: some are open, in whole or in part, to non-members of the group; others are closed and require attendees to become members of the group; some groups conduct business meetings while others present informational programs. Some groups are affiliated with Sections. For more information on any group or to inquire about forming a group, visit the Sections and Litigation Groups Dept. booth located at the La Quinta Resort & Club.
